

All proceeds from USA Warriors vs. Lawmakers game benefit injured veterans

WASHINGTON – On Wednesday, U.S. Representative Mike Quigley (IL-05) participated in the USA Warriors vs. Lawmakers charity ice-hockey game, which matched up disabled veterans against members of Congress and their staff. To see photos from this event, click here cl

“Despite the challenges they face, the USA Warriors hockey players have a love for hockey and a competitive spirit that remains strong,” said Rep. Quigley. “The same qualities that made them successful in the military, their teamwork, perseverance and determination, make them inspiring competitors on the ice and I’m honored to be a part of this event.”

Quigley Plays in Charity Hockey Game with Disabled Veterans

Friday, 14 September 2012 11:03

USA Warriors Team Captain Mark Little (left), a double amputee and Purple Heart recipient, faces off against Rep. Mike Quigley (right) as Chief of Staff of the Army Gen. Raymond Odierno and wife Linda (center) drop the ceremonial puck to start the USA Warriors vs. Lawmakers hockey game. (photo credit Rachel Larue/Pentagram)

Congressman Mike Quigley (second from the right) skates in the USA Warriors vs. Lawmakers charity fundraiser game. (photo credit Rachel Larue/Pentagram)

NBA champion plays through the Center on Halsted youth at the